Barton, Walter & Krier has named Jay Trumbower as its new chief executive officer.

Trumbower has decades of experience, including nearly 15 years in public accounting and 12 years in professional services as he steps into the role at the Maple Grove-based CPA and consulting firm. In his role, Trumbower will work closely with BWK shareholders to develop a strategic growth plan for the firm.

He and the shareholders will also focus on BWK's client services, process improvements, team member development and technology.

Trumbower brings strong and extensive analytic, development, implementation skills, and strategic and collaborative leadership to his new role, according to an announcement from the company.

Before joining BWK, Trumbower was CFO of Boulay, a $4.5 billion banking group. He built eight years of COO and CFO experience in professional service firms, including five years at a regional CPA and consulting firm.

In addition to his many certifications, Trumbower has expertise in entrepreneurial operating system integration, profit and loss responsibilities, strategic planning and alliances and all aspects of the mergers and acquisition process.

As past president of Financial Executives International, Trumbower received the Chapter of the Year Award for two consecutive years. He is currently a member of the FEI Board of Directors and the Plymouth Civil League.
